WHITE REPERTOIRE

With a Foreword by Anatoly Karpov

2007
EDITION OLMS

THE AUTHOR: Evgeny Sveshnikov (born 1950) is an active international player who currently represents Latvia. This Russian Grandmaster is widely recognised as a great openings expert. He has worked as a trainer for the 12th FIDE World Champion Anatoly Karpov, among others. He is especially known for having developed the system with ...e5 in the Sicilian defence which now bears his name, as well as for his work on the 2 c3 system for White against the Sicilian and the Advance Variation against the French Defence.

Foreword

It gives me great pleasure, for several reasons, to introduce the author of this book. In the first place, not only are we contemporaries but we also come from the same area: he comes from Cheliabinsk and I from neighbouring Zlatoust. So "Zhenya" Sveshnikov and I have known each other from childhood. We often played together in the junior teams of the Russian Federation, and then the Soviet Union. We both had the same trainer: Leonid Aronovich Gratvol, who was fanatically devoted to developing junior chess. It is perhaps thanks to him that the future grandmaster grew to love not only the work of chess analysis but also coaching, which he started relatively young. Usually, active players prefer tournament play to spending time and energy on other chess activities. Yet Evgeny Ellinovich has managed, not only to win over seventy international tournaments during his long career, but also to bring on the talents of dozens of grandmasters and masters.

Secondly I should mention the high quality of analysis of my old comrade, his conscientiousness and his basic honesty, which I came to appreciate many times in the years when Grandmaster Sveshnikov was one of my trainers during my difficult matches against Garry Kasparov.

Thirdly, I am anxious to stress that our collaboration continues in various ways. Evgeny Ellinovich helps me prepare for important events, teaches in the Anatoly Karpov School and willingly assists when I fly with colleagues to promote the game of chess in distant regions of Russia. I should add that he often does this on his own initiative as well; it is thanks to him that chess schools have revived in the Altai and South-Urals regions.

Finally I must mention his fanatical and stubborn work in researching the openings, which eventually brought him brilliant success. I recall that thirty years ago, during a USSR championship event, I said to him pityingly: "Zhenya, why do you keep torturing yourself by playing that Sicilian with ...e7–e5? Choose something simpler and you'll play much more easily!" Today I have to admit that I was wrong: he was right not to listen to me: today everybody plays the Sveshnikov Variation! And as a fellow native of the Urals, I am pleased that this system is also known as the "Cheliabinsk Variation".

Unfortunately, his monograph on the Sveshnikov Sicilian has until now remained practically the only publication by this grandmaster in the Russian language. But now finally this new theoretical work of Evgeny Sveshnikov is available. It is devoted to the popular 3. e5 system against the French Defence. Its popularity is once more largely due to its constant adoption by Sveshnikov, who has developed a fantastic feel for its nuances. It has helped him amass a plus-score (70% from over 150 games!) against such French Defence experts as Evgeny Bareev. The author believes that Black cannot equalise against the Advance Variation and to date no-one has been able to prove the contrary.

I consider this book to be a real manual, original in its conception and excellent in its execution. It not only teaches you how to play a specific variation of the French Defence, it also helps you understand many strategic ideas and their practical application in the middlegame, which for the majority of players is even more important.

A book by such an outstanding grandmaster and theoretician should prove useful to a wide readership. Club, Internet and weekend tournament players will find that Volume 1 will quickly give them a good grounding in what is really a very unpleasant (for Black) plan of attack. Masters (and even grandmasters) will find in Volume 2 a real master-class by the world expert in this variation.

Evgeny Sveshnikov and Anatoly Karpov

Introduction

I have been using the 3. e5 system against the French Defence for about thirty years. How did this weapon become part of my arsenal? In the 1970s chess information was not as readily available as it is in today's computer age; it was difficult to obtain it and process it. I got into the habit of self-reliance, trusting solely my own ideas. I understood that the move 3. e5 was not objectively the strongest, but I had no desire to compete with such experienced French-specialists as, for instance, Vaganian, in the long and complex lines that arise after the main continuation 3. ♘c3. Thus I chose the 3. e5 system against the French (and similarly 2. c3 against the Sicilian) for practical reasons, since I understood that my opponents would be focusing their attention on the moves 3. ♘c3 and 3. ♘d2 which were much more popular at that time.

By the end of the 1980s I had accumulated enough theoretical and practical material on the 3. e5 system. I prepared a talk for my pupils which I ended up giving to over a thousand people. What I found interesting was this: when I tried to teach concrete variations to players of 2nd or even 1st Category, they just looked bored and remembered nothing. On the other hand, if I explained a typical idea by means of an illustrative game, they learnt it for ever. So for learning a new pattern it is best to use well-annotated games, in which the main ideas and plans of both sides can be clearly explained. When the pupil understands the general idea he can memorise the concrete variations more easily.

At the start of the 1990s I wrote a quite extensive article on 3. e5!? for New in Chess Year Book. The very positive response to that article prompted me to undertake the present book project, well aware that it would require not just a lot of time ...

It is well known that the choice of a plan is based on the pawn structure in the centre and the dynamic placement of the pieces. In my opinion it is not very useful to talk about a particular pawn structure without placing it in the context of a concrete opening. A student who has not reached at least the minimum level of candidate master will have difficulty in assimilating such material. My teaching experience tells me that the material can be assimilated much better if it is taught in the context of an actual opening.

I decided to begin this book with an explanation of the main ideas for each side; each plan is illustrated with games and extensive commentary. Other things being equal, I have given preference to games by the players who were the first to employ a particular plan. Incidentally, most of the annotations were made without consulting a computer, and in this lies their chief merit, since all the ideas are "human". Of course, the variations were then checked later with analysis engines, to eliminate crude oversights. The computer is a valuable assistant for the technical work but in the realm of ideas it is actually, with rare exceptions, of little use.

Further on we present the reader with a series of test positions and solutions to reinforce what has been learnt. Since one of the most common themes of the Advance Variation is to blockade the centre and play against the weakened dark squares, I have included a chapter on this topic.

I wanted to write a book that would be interesting and instructive not just to ordinary players but also to candidate masters, masters and even grandmasters. The practical strength of a player and his understanding of the opening are often at different levels. It often happens that even experienced players go astray in unfamiliar positions. That is why even for them it is useful to reflect once again upon the "why", the general bases underlying the concrete variations that they have memorised.

For advanced players who have studied the first two chapters of Volume 1, I have provided in Volume 2 some reference material in tabular "Encyclopaedia" format, plus theoretically important games with light notes only – to encourage independent analysis. I have also drawn attention to what at present appear to be the most critical positions.

Chess is not just a sport – it is also an element of culture, which is why I usually begin my opening studies with a historical review. I consider it essential to pay tribute to all those who have contributed to the development of this variation, and to trace its development.

Volume 1 (Basic Course) consists of:

1) Historical overview

2) Explanation of the plans for both sides through games annotated in detail

3) A chapter on blockade

4) Test positions

After assimilating this material you can move onto a more professional study ("one step at a time").

Volume 2 (Advanced Course) consists of:

1) Theoretically important games for independent analysis

2) Encyclopaedia

3) Conclusions: the likely future development of the 3. e5 system

4) Games for further study

5) The latest theoretical developments

Naturally I hope that this two-volume work will become not only a manual for club, Internet and weekend tournament players, but will also prove a useful reference for masters and even grandmasters.

That I have been able to bring this immensely time-consuming but equally interesting work to a successful conclusion is very much due to the efforts of International Master Vladimir Barsky, whom I should like to thank sincerely here for his collaboration in the development and completion of this book project.

Chapter 1

Theoretically important games for independent analysis

In computer databases there are over 25,000 games beginning with the moves 1. e4 e6 2. d4 d5 3. *e*5 (C02 in the classification of the Encyclopaedia of Chess Openings). To save the reader from drowning in this sea of information, I have selected about fifty games for their instructional or theoretical value. I hope that my comments (sometimes short, sometimes quite extensive) on these games will provide a sound basis for your own investigations of this opening, since it is difficult to achieve good competitive results in modern chess without carrying out your own independent analytical work.

The first part of this chapter consists of games by great figures in chess history, by world champions and by the great chess thinker David Ionovich Bronstein. Then I present games organised into thematic sections and arranged chronologically within each section. I want to stress once again that each such classification is always relative in character.

1.1 Games by World Champions

After studying the games with 3. e5 featuring World Champions, I can safely say that from the viewpoint of opening theory they contributed nothing of importance. But world champions are world champions, and it is obviously interesting to see how they handled this opening. In Volume 1 we have already seen some games by world champions; now we are going to look at a few further interesting examples.

In the following game the first World Champion did not handle the opening very well. White won only thanks to an unsound piece sacrifice by his opponent.

When the play takes place on both wings, it is quite rare for Black to win; this game is one of the exceptions.

Spassky played this variation three times against Korchnoi, but lost two games and won only one. The two final encounters in their match in St. Petersburg (1999) deserve attention, but the most interesting game played by Boris Vasilievich was with Black in Moscow 1999 against Vlastimil Hort, where in a theoretically known position he unexpectedly sacrificed the exchange.

As we can see, the World Champions had mixed results with this system; you only have recall Steinitz and Alekhine. More deserving of attention are the games in which Euwe used the plan of giving up the white pawn centre; he played very logically and methodically to gain an advantage. The games between Spassky and Korchnoi and the Hort – Spassky game are interesting. The games in which the World Champions played Black deserve greater attention, especially those by Botvinnik and Petrosian.

1.2 Master games

David Ionovich Bronstein did not often play this system but, in contrast to the games of the World Champions, his games were brimming with new ideas. Bronstein's play was very creative, packed full of originality, whereas World Champions are concerned mainly with their competitive results. We can say that they are the champions, but Bronstein was a creator.

Generally the creators of new opening systems, the "chess researchers" are considered inferior to the champions, since the chess public is more interested in outstanding results than in theory. Theoreticians are never regarded as being on the same level as champions, even though it is precisely the former who educate the chess world. Theory is extremely important in any field of knowledge, but chess players have never set themselves the goal of discovering the best moves in the initial position of the game.

8...♗×f2+ 9. ♔f1

White is a pawn down and unable to castle, but the f2 bishop has problems getting back into its own camp.

9...♗d7

An earlier game had gone 9...♗c6!? 10. ♕d3 a6 11. a4 ♘e7 12. ♖a2 ♘f5 13. g4 ♘h4 14. a5 ♕a7 15. ♘×h4 ♗×h4 16. ♗e3 b6 17. ♗×b6 ♕b7 18. ♗d4 f6⇄ (Kristjánsson – Thorsson, Reykjavík 1998). Obviously 9...♗×e2+? 10. ♕×e2 is bad.

10. ♕d2

White protects the e3 square and threatens to win the bishop with 11. ♗d3. An earlier try was 10. c4!, which seems more consistent, e. g. 10...d×c4?! (grandmaster M. This leads to a lost position. The computer suggests 11. a4!? a5 (11...♘g4? 12. a5+–) 12. ♗d3 ♘g4 13. ♕g5 h5⇄.

11...♘g4∓ 12. ♕g5?!

It might appear that there is no point in playing on in this ending; there are bishops of opposite colour and Black has no weaknesses. But in reality White has practically an extra piece – his king! His plan is first to achieve the e3–e4 break, followed by d4–d5 to make use of his more active king. Black lacks counterplay, his pieces have only the e7 and f8 squares at their disposal, and the f7 pawn needs to be defended by the king.

26. ♗a6!

This move prevents Black's only possibility of counterplay with a7–a5, after which the g7 bishop would be "resurrected".

A typical 'French' idea: Black prepares to exchange light-squared bishops on b5. Timman hinders this.

14. ♕e2 a6

Renewing the threat.

15. ♘b1!?

A purely prophylactic move: if Black insists on exchanging bishops, White will exchange on b5 and then the knight will come to c3 to attack the doubled pawn, which cannot be defended.

25...♖d5

Black has parried the most dangerous threat – the incursion of the queen to g5 – and at the same time he sets a trap.

Sveshnikov – Dvoiris

Cheliabinsk 2004

1. e4 c5 2. c3 e6 3. d4 d5 4. e5

4...♘c6 5. ♘f3 ♕b6 6. a3 ♘h6 7. b4 c×d4 8. c×d4 ♘f5 9. ♗b2 ♗d7

Another possibility is 9...♗e7.

10. g4 ♘h6?!

Dvoiris is again unlucky! In 1993 I played a thematic match against Lputian to investigate this position, so I was very familiar with the ideas. At the moment theory considers 10...♘fe7 to be the best continuation.

11. ♖g1! f6 12. e×f6 g×f6 13. ♘c3 ♘f7 14. ♘a4 ♕c7 15. ♖c1! ♕d6

After lengthy reflection, Semion Isaakovich comes up with a new move. The stem game of this variation was Short – Lputian, Batumi 1999 (Volume 1, game 52 on page 103), in which 15...♕f4 was played. Although Smbat managed to draw the game, the variation is considered dubious for Black. Dvoiris's new move does nothing to change this assessment.

This weakens the e5 square even more.

19. h×g5 (19. ♘×g5±) 19...♖g8

White has seized the key square e5 and prevented Black from castling. Strategically the game is already decided – it just remains for White to wrap it up with an attack on the king.

20. ♘d3!?

White refines his plan: the knight is headed for e5. Now the black king will have no safe haven. Instead 20. b5 ♘cd8 21. ♗d3± was also good.

Notes

Chapter 3

A summary of the 3. e5 system

It is time to draw some conclusions. Briefly they are as follows:

1. e4 e6?

An error – 1...c5! is better, or failing that 1...e5!? although in the latter case Black has serious problems with the defence of the e5 pawn after 2. ♘f3 ♘c6 3. ♗b5!.

2. d4 d5

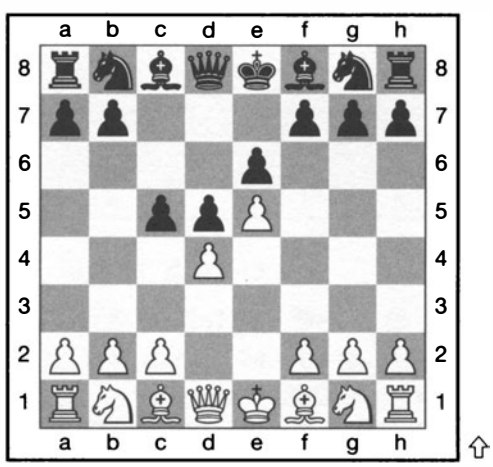

Otherwise White has a strong pawn pair in the centre and a winning position.

3. e5!?

Objectively 3. ♘c3! is stronger, after which Black has a bad position. But White also has a big advantage after 3. e5!?, greater than he has after 1. e4! in the initial position.

3...c5!

The correct move, beginning immediate counterplay against White's pawn centre. The alternative plan to exchange the light-squared bishops with 3...b6 4. c3 or 3...♘e7 4. ♘f3 b6 5. c3 ♕d7 6. a4 does not offer Black any prospect of equality.

4. c3

The gambits introduced by Nimzowitsch bring White no advantage. In fact 4. ♕g4?! is not even sufficient for equality (see the annotations to the game Sveshnikov – Komarov, Vrnjačka Banja 1999 (Volume 1, game 28 on page 57). The line 4. ♘f3?! c×d4! 5. ♗d3 is somewhat better. However, I advise all players below the level of candidate master to include these gambits in their repertoire and learn how to handle them by studying the games of Nimzowitsch and Keres. Mastering the methods of gambit play is an important stage in the development of a chessplayer.
The move 4. d×c5?! – suggested by Louis Paulsen – was later tried a few times by Steinitz but gives Black easy equality. He has several playable plans, such as that demonstrated by Emanuel Lasker in his game against Tarrasch (St. Petersburg 1914; Volume 1, game 7 on page 18). Also playable is 4...♗×c5 5. ♗d3 ♘c6 6. ♘f3 ♘ge7 with equal chances.

4...♘c6!

The best move, obeying all the principles of the opening. Furthermore it is consistent with Black's plan of counterattack against the d4 pawn. Transferring the other knight to c6 does not equalise, since it loses time and weakens the kingside. The plan with 4...♗d7 and 5...a6 is also too slow.

5. ♘f3

White has nothing better than this move, since after 5. ♗e3?! c×d4 6. c×d4 Black can turn his fire on the e5 pawn with 6...♘h6, 7...♘f5 and 8...f6!?. The move 5. f4 is not in harmony with the spirit of this opening, since it incarcerates the c1 bishop, weakens the light squares and simply wastes time.

5...♕b6!

We know from the annotated games and the Encyclopaedia that the variations 5...♘h6?! 6. d×c5! and 5...♘ge7 6. ♘a3! are not sufficient for equality.

An interesting possibility for Black is the move 5...♗d7!? recommended by Botvinnik, which we call the "flexible defence". However, this line also offers White a greater choice than he has after the more active 5...♕b6, since he has the additional possibility 6. ♗e3!?. After the insertion of the move ...♗d7, the immediate development of the bishop at e3 is more favourable than on the 5th move, since after an exchange on f5 (♗d3×♘f5) White will gain a tempo, because Black will have to move the bishop again (to e6) to defend the d5 pawn (in reply to ♘c3). If instead Black sends the knight to g4 via h6 and then exchanges on e3, he is liable to come under attack on the kingside. Alternatively White can withdraw the bishop from e3, leaving the g4 knight out on a limb in the danger zone.

The strongest reply to 5...♗d7 is definitely 6. ♗e2! after which a counter-attack directed at d4 comes too late and Black must switch to attacking the e5 pawn with 6...f6!?. But experience has shown that he does not equalise in this case. The plan used several times by Korchnoi comes into consideration: 5...♗d7 6. ♗e2 ♘ge7 7. 0–0 ♘g6!?.

6. a3!

An attentive reading of this book will have persuaded you that 6. ♗e2?! brings no advantage after 6...c×d4! 7. c×d4 ♘h6!, the move order used against me by Portisch near the end of the 1993 Biel Interzonal 1993 (game 51 on page 43). Portisch is well known for his expertise in the openings; his games constitute a whole openings manual in themselves! Now 8. ♗×h6?! ♕×b2! is bad, since White does not get enough compensation for the pawn. But if Black plays 6...♘h6?! instead of 6...c×d4! then the variation 7. ♗×h6! g×h6 (7...♕×b2? loses to 8. ♗e3!) 8. ♕d2 ♗g7 9. ♘a3 is better for White.

The move 6. ♗d3?! is inadequate because of 6...c×d4! 7. c×d4 ♗d7 8. ♘c3 ♘×d4 9. ♘×d4 ♕×d4, and White has serious worries about equalising.

6...♘h6!?

Only at this point does Black have a choice of reasonable continuations.

a) 6...c4!? closing the position. Now after 7. ♘bd2! Black cannot ignore the threat of 8. b3 since if 7...♗d7?! White can gain the advantage by 8.b3! c×b3 9. ♘×b3 ♘a5 10. ♘×a5 ♕×a5 11. ♗d2 ♕a4 12. ♕b1 as shown in the game Sveshnikov – Timman, Tilburg 1992 (Volume 1, game 29 on page 60). But even after the better move 7...♘a5 White still has an advantage, as both theory and practice testify.

b) 6...♗d7 7. b4 c×d4 8. c×d4 ♖c8 9. ♗b2 ♘a5 10. ♘bd2 ♘c4, and here too theory promises White the better game by 11. ♘×c4 d×c4 12. ♖c1 a5 13. ♘d2!.

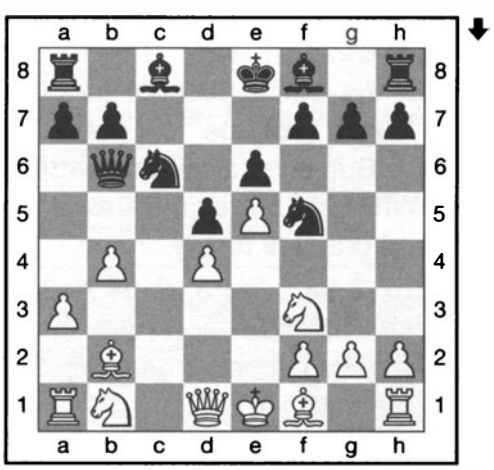

c) 6...a5. White now has three playable continuations – 7. ♗d3!?, 7. ♗e2 and 7. b3!?.

The move 7. ♗d3!? entails a pawn sacrifice: 7...c×d4 8. c×d4 ♗d7 9. ♘c3 ♘×d4 10. ♘×d4 ♕×d4. For White to gain any advantage, improvements need to be found for him in the games I. Zaitsev – Lempert, Moscow 1994 (game 26 on page 26) and Shirov – Anand, Teheran 2000 (Volume 1, game 22 on page 44). If no white advantage can be found in that line, White can play 7. ♗e2 instead, since now the plan for Black shown in the game Sveshnikov – Portisch (game 51 on page 43) does not work (there is no check on a5 available, the b5 square is weakened, and White does not lose castling rights). On the other hand Black can develop an initiative on the queenside with 7...a4. Finally White can play 7. b3!? as in the game Sveshnikov – Volkov, Togliatti 2003 (Volume 1, page 55) and this should be sufficient for some advantage.

7. b4 c×d4 8. c×d4 ♘f5 9. ♗b2!

The alternative 9. ♗e3?! brings White no advantage in view of 9...f6! 10. e×f6 (10. b5 leads to a draw after 10. ♘×e5, as in Romanishin – Lputian, Yerevan 1988 (Volume 1, page 77); if 10. ♗d3?! Black even gains the advantage; see Potkin – Filippov, Togliatti 2003; Volume 1, game 40 on page 77) 10...g×f6 with chances for both sides (Morozevich – Bareev, Monte Carlo 2002, game 42 on page 36).

Now Black is again presented with a choice. The main options are 9...♗d7 and 9...♗e7. Instead 9...a5 10. b5 gives White the advantage, as in Sveshnikov – Bareev, Moscow 1995 (Note 247 on page 100 and game [1] on page 116). Incidentally, 9...a5 was Korchnoi's choice in a rapid game against Erenburg (See Volume 1, Test position 65 on page 145; Solution on page 155).

These six positions (the four black options at move six and the two at move nine) are the main bastions of Black's defence against 3. e5. They also represent the directions in which I expect the theory to develop in the coming years.

A.

9...♗d7 10. g4

Black has fewer problems after 10. ♗e2 ♗e7 11. 0–0 0–0 with chances for both sides, Sveshnikov – Bareev, Moscow 1990 (game [2] on page 116).

10...♘fe7

Black fails to solve his problems with 10...♘h6 11. ♖g1! f6 12. e×f6 g×f6 13. ♘c3 ♘f7 14. ♘a4 ♕c7 15. ♖c1 ♕f4 (15...♕d6?! is weaker, see Sveshnikov – Dvoiris, Cheliabinsk 2004 (game 59 on page 52) 16. ♘c5 and White had the better chances in the game Short – Lputian, Batumi 1999 (Volume 1, game 52 on page 103), which is the most important game played with this variation. However, on this theme I also recommend detailed study of the games Vasyukov – Bukhman, St. Petersburg 1994 (Volume 1, page 104), Savić – Lputian, Neum 2002 (game [3] on page 117), Lautier – Bauer, French Championship, Val d'Isère 2002 (page 50) and Vallejo Pons – Hillarp Persson, Benidorm 2003 (game [4] on page 117).

11. ♘c3 ♘a5

The earliest known game with this variation is Rellstab – Unzicker, West German Championship, Bad Pyrmont 1950 (game [5] on page 117). Other important games include: Shirov – Kramnik, Monte Carlo 1997 (Volume 1, game 48 on page 95) and Nevednichy – Lputian, Ohrid 2001 (game [6] on page 118).

12. ♕c2!?

An unclear position results from 12. ♘d2 ♖c8 13. ♖c1.

12...♘c4 13. ♘×c4 d×c4 14. ♘d2 ♘d5 15. ♘×c4 ♕c6 16. ♘e4 ♘b6 17. ♘cd6+ ♗×d6 18. ♘×d6+ ♔e7 19. ♕×c6 ♗×c6 20. ♖g1, and Black had to struggle for a draw (Sveshnikov – Potkin, Russian Championship, Krasnoyarsk 2003; Volume 1, page 95). You should also study the games Alekseev – S. Ivanov, Tomsk 2001 (game [7] on page 118) and Sveshnikov – Radjabov, Tallinn 2004 (game 61 on page 53).

B.

9...♗e7 10. ♗d3

Another interesting idea here is 10. h4!? with the plan of capturing later on f5 (♗×♘) and then exchanging the dark-squared bishops; this plan was used in a game of Mark Tseitlin's. With the help of this move I was able to defeat Bareev in the 1996 Russian Championship (Volume 1, game 34 on page 65) and Doroshkevich in St. Petersburg 2000 (Volume 1, page 65). See also the games Grischuk – Lputian, 35th Olympiad, Bled 2002 (Volume 1, game 51 on page 101) and Vysochin – Polivanov, St. Petersburg 2002 (Volume 1, page 102).

10...h5 (10...♗d7 is weaker: 11. g4 ♘h6 12. ♖g1 with advantage for White) 11. ♗d3 a5 12. ♗×f5 e×f5 13. ♘c3 ♗e6 14. b5 a4 15. ♕d3 ♘a7 16. 0–0 ♖c8 17. ♗c1 ♖c4 18. ♘e2!? ♕×b5 19. ♗g5 ⩲.

10...a5!?

Or 10...♗d7 11. 0–0 ♖c8 12. ♘bd2 g5!? 13. ♘b3 h5 (13...g4 14. ♘fd2 h5 15. ♗×f5 e×f5 16. ♘c5 ♗e6 17. ♘db3±) 14. ♖c1 g4 15. ♘e1 a5 16. ♗×f5 e×f5 17. ♘d3±, Khalifman – Dolmatov, Rethymnon 2003 (game 20 on page 22).

11. ♕a4!

This move restrains Black's queenside initiative, allowing White to complete his development and then start active operations on the kingside.

11...0–0 12. b5 ♗d7

The order of moves used in the game Kiik – Korchnoi, Rilton Cup, Stockholm 2003 (Volume 1, page 95) deserves attention: 12...♘h4!? 13. ♘×h4 ♗×h4 14. g3?! (14. 0–0± is better).

13. 0–0 ♘a7 14. ♘c3 ♘h4 15. ♘×h4 ♗×h4 16. ♕d1 f5 17. ♘a4 ♕d8.

In the game Motylev – Alavkin, Sochi 2004 (Game [8] on page 118) White also gained an advantage with 18. ♕b3.

18. ♕e2±

Finally I should like to stress that if you want to keep up to date with developments in a particular opening variation, do not confine your interest to the games of players with a high ELO rating: look at the games of players who specialise in that variation, since they are always on the lookout for new ideas.

Chapter 4

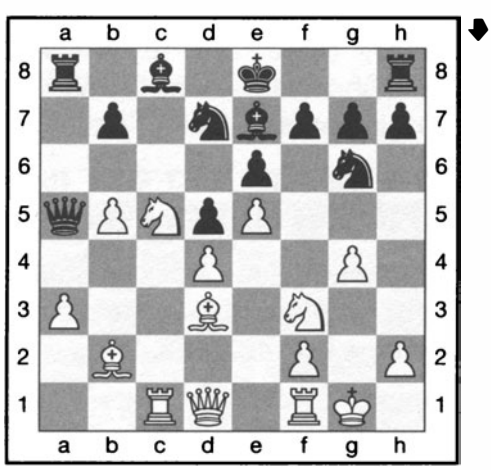

Games for further study

In his final chapter of this Advanced Course the author picked out the following eight games as being especially significant. The Publisher has therefore agreed to include these in an extra chapter for further study. Diagrams have been placed at significant points, suggested by Sveshnikov's comments in Chapter 3.

Chapter 5

The latest theoretical developments

The publication date of the German edition of this book was in July 2006. Since the research for that edition was completed, literally thousands of games have been played in national and international tournaments – 6,500 alone in the 36th Chess Olympiad in Turin (20th May to 4th June 2006). Naturally the Advance Variation of the French Defence has been subjected to further tests. To reflect these developments, for the English edition of the book Evgeny Sveshnikov has specially selected what, in his opinion, are the twenty-four theoretically most important recent games for further study material.

'I consider this book to be a real manual, original in its conception and excellent in its execution. It not only teaches you how to play a specific variation of the French Defence, but it also helps you understand many strategic ideas and their practical application in the middlegame, which for the majority of players is even more important.' Anatoly Karpov, 12th world chess champion

The well-known grandmaster and theoretician Evgeny Sveshnikov has used the Closed Variation (1.e4 e6 2.d4 d5 3.e5) more than 150 times in tournament play with a score of more than 70%. Many theoretically important games have been excluded by the author from 'official' chess databases, and here they are exclusively published for the first time.

The present Volume 2 (Master Course) contains the following main chapters:
– 61 theoretically important games for independent analysis;
– Encyclopaedia of variations;
– Summary of the 3.e5 system;
– Games for further study;
– Latest theoretical developments.

This two-volume work is intended for a broad range of chess enthusiasts. The author guarantees that anyone making a thorough study of the available material can expect an improvement in his playing strength in this system of approximately 200 Elo points.
